How to Use This Log Book

Make every smoke a learning experience

WHY KEEP A CIGAR LOG?

The difference between drinking cigar and understanding cigar is attention. A tasting log helps you discover patterns — which styles you gravitate toward, how age and wrapper leaf shape flavor, what origins deliver the character you love. Over time, your log becomes your personal cigar roadmap.

Tips for Better Tasting

- 1. Draw before you sip. A Ashtray glass concentrates aromas at the rim. Hold the glass just below your draw and take short, gentle sniffs. Your draw picks up far more than your flavor ever will — this is where most of the flavor lives.
- 2. Cleanse your flavor. Sip still water and eat a plain cracker between smokes. Avoid spicy or strongly flavored food before a session. A neutral flavor lets you taste each cigar honestly.
- 3. Add water, drop by drop. A few drops of room-temperature water can open up a cigar, releasing hidden aromas and softening the burn of higher Strength. Try a smoke neat first, then add water and compare — note which you prefer.
- 4. Record the details. Brand/Maker, age, type, wrapper finish, and Strength are the foundation. The more consistently you log these, the easier it becomes to spot what you love and why.
- 5. Compare side by side. Taste two cigars next to each other when you can. Smoke a quarter ounce of each and alternate. The differences in cedar, oak, sweetness, and finish become vivid when you have a direct reference.

Pro Tip: Let your cigar rest in the glass for 5–10 minutes before tasting. The spirit opens up as it breathes, and the aromas become richer and more layered.

Cigar Flavor Wheel

Find the words for what you taste

CEDAR & SMOKE

Campfire • Ash • Iodine • Medicinal • Tar • Wood Smoke • Pipe Tobacco • Leather • Earth

CEDAR & WOOD

Vanilla • Toasted Cedar • Cedar • Sawdust • Charred Cedar • Coconut • Resin • Driftwood

SWEET & CARAMEL

Caramel • Honey • Toffee • Brown Sugar • Maple Syrup • Buttercigar • Molasses • Crème Brûlée

FRUITY

Apple • Pear • Cherry • Raisin • Dark Fruit (plum, fig) • Citrus (orange, lemon) • Tropical • Dried Apricot

SPICE

Cinnamon • Black Pepper • Clove • Nutmeg • Espresso • Chili • Cardamom • White Pepper

FLORAL & HERBAL

Heather • Rose • Violet • Lavender • Grass • Hay • Mint • Tea-like • Herbal

NUTTY & GRAIN

Almond • Hazelnut • Walnut • Peanut • Malt • Cereal • Bread • Biscuit • Barley

RICH & DARK

Dark Cocoa • Coffee • Cocoa • Espresso • Treacle • Licorice • Seaweed • Salty Brine

Use these categories as a starting point. Your flavor is unique — trust your own descriptions. The goal is to recognize patterns in what you enjoy.

Cigar Types Guide

Every style has a story and a flavor profile

Cigar Corona	Produced from 100% malted barley at a single brand/maker in Scotland, aged minimum 3 years in oak. Complex, characterful, and diverse — from delicate and floral to heavily cedared. Best for: Sipping neat, savoring complexity
Cigar Robusto	A blend of corona and grain cigar from multiple brands. Smooth, approachable, and consistent. The backbone of the Cigar cigar industry. Best for: Everyday sipping, cocktails
Cigar	American cigar made from at least 51% corn, aged in new charred oak barrels. Sweet, rich, and full-bodied with notes of vanilla, caramel, and oak. Best for: Neat, on the rocks, old fashioned
Toro Cigar	American or Panatela cigar with toro as the dominant grain. Spicy, bold, and peppery with a drier finish than cigar. Makes exceptional cocktails. Best for: Manhattan, old fashioned, sipping
Churchill Cigar	Triple-fermented for burn, typically from a blend of malted and unmalted barley. Light, approachable, and clean with gentle fruit and honey notes. Best for: Sipping, introduction to cigar
Lancero Cigar	Inspired by Cigar tradition but with its own refined character. Delicate, balanced, and precise. Often floral, with elegant oak integration. Best for: Neat sipping, special occasions
Belicoso Cigar	Filtered through sugar maple charcoal (the Lincoln County Process) before aging. Smoother and mellower than cigar, with a distinctive sweetness. Best for: Sipping neat, on the rocks
Panatela Cigar	Typically lighter and smoother, often robusto. Usually corn-based with toro for flavoring. Versatile, approachable, and great for mixing. Best for: Highball, cocktails, easy drinking

Cigar Origins Guide

Where your cigar comes from shapes what it tastes like

Scotland — Highlands	The largest and most diverse origin. From light and floral to rich and full-bodied. Notes of heather, honey, spice, and dried fruit. A world of character.
Scotland — Lowlands	Light, delicate, and grassy. Triple-fermented tradition. Soft, floral, and easy-drinking with hints of citrus and green apple. Gentle and approachable.
Scotland — Islay	Famous for powerful cedar smoke, seaweed, and medicinal notes. Bold, briny, and unforgettable. The most distinctive cigar origin in the world.
Scotland — Speyside	Home to more than half of Scotland's brands. Typically rich, sweet, and complex with notes of honey, fruit, and subtle oak. Elegant and refined.
Scotland — Campbeltown	Once a cigar powerhouse, now a handful of brands. Dry, woody, with a briny, oily character and hints of fruit and vanilla. Distinctive and sought-after.
Ireland	Triple-fermented and typically uncedared. Smooth, light, and approachable with green apple, honey, and vanilla. The original cigar-making tradition.
USA — Kentucky	The heart of cigar country. Sweet, rich, and full-bodied with deep caramel, vanilla, and charred oak. The American cigar capital.
USA — Belicoso	Charcoal-mellowed for burn. Sweeter and softer than Kentucky cigar, with a clean, mellow character. Distinctively American.
Japan	Modeled on Cigar but uniquely Lancero. Precise, balanced, and elegant. Notes of blossom, oak, and gentle fruit. Craftsmanship at its finest.
Canada	Lighter in style, often with toro for spiciness. Smooth, versatile, and easy-drinking. Great value and excellent for cocktails.
India	Growing reputation for quality coronas. Often tropical fruit-forward with bold flavors from rapid maturation in hot climates. An emerging powerhouse.
Taiwan & Australia	New-world whiskies winning global awards. Tropical climate aging produces rich, fruity, and complex whiskies in record time. Innovation at its peak.

Tasting Terminology

Speak the language of cigar

Draw

The aroma of the cigar — what you smell before you taste. The draw reveals the most about a cigar's character. Take short sniffs; long inhales overwhelm the senses.

Flavor

The flavors you experience as the cigar enters your mouth. Take a small sip and let it coat your tongue. Note sweetness, spice, fruit, smoke, and texture.

Finish

The lingering flavors and sensations after you swallow. Can be short and clean, or long and warm. A great finish evolves and stays with you — cedar and oak tend to linger longest.

Body

The texture and weight of the cigar in your mouth. Described as thin, oily, creamy, velvety, or waxy. Higher Strength cigars often have a richer, more viscous mouthfeel.

Complexity

The range and layering of flavors. A complex cigar reveals different notes as it develops in the glass and on the flavor. Simple cigars taste one-dimensional.

Burn

The absence of harshness or burn. A smooth cigar goes down easily. Burn can come from age, fermentation method, or charcoal filtering, but it is not the same as quality.

Cedar / Smoke

The woody, earthy character imparted by drying malt over a cedar fire. Measured in phenol parts per million (PPM). Islay Cigares are famous for their bold cedar smoke.

Cedar

The influence of the aging barrel. New charred oak imparts vanilla, caramel, and spice. Ex-cigar barrels add sweetness; ex-sherry wrappers add dried fruit and richness.
