Drawing, and Creative Expression*

👉 Your Creative Space

This journal is designed to be your personal art companion — a place to experiment, practice, and capture inspiration wherever you go. Every page is an invitation to create without judgment.

👉 Three Page Types

Dotted canvas pages feature a light dot grid that guides proportions and composition without interfering with your artwork. Perfect for watercolor sketches and studies.

Grid practice pages offer a light rectangular grid ideal for perspective drawing, geometric patterns, and learning exercises.

Blank canvas pages give you completely open space for finished pieces, mixed media, or free expression.

👉 Artwork Log Pages

Log pages let you record the title, date, medium, colors used, techniques, and notes for each piece — so you can track your progress and revisit ideas later.

👉 Tips

- Use the dot grid for light pencil sketches before painting.
- Test colors on the edge of the page before committing.
- Don't be afraid to make mistakes — they are part of the creative journey.
- Date every piece so you can see your progress over time.
