

Dream Journal

Capture the Journey of Your Subconscious Mind

MORE SHINE PRESS

👉 Why Record Your Dreams

Dreams are windows into the subconscious. By writing them down consistently, you begin to notice patterns, symbols, and themes that reveal your inner world. Over time, you may even improve your dream recall and experience lucid dreams.

👉 The Two-Page Dream Spread

Each dream uses a two-page spread. The left page captures the essentials: date, dream title, mood, lucidity level, and type. The right page is for the full narrative - write everything you remember, in any order. Do not worry about grammar or logic.

👉 Tips for Better Recall

- Write immediately. Keep this journal by your bed. The moment you wake, write -- dreams fade within minutes.
- Stay still. Do not move or check your phone first. Lie still and let the dream come back to you.
- Note emotions. Feelings are the strongest anchor for dream memory. Record them first if details are fuzzy.
- Look for symbols. Recurring people, places, and objects often carry personal meaning.

SYMBOL REFERENCE

Flying -- Freedom, ambition, or a desire to escape limitations.

Falling -- Loss of control, anxiety, or fear of failure.

Water -- Emotions and the subconscious. Still water reflects peace; rough water reflects turmoil.

Being chased -- Avoiding a fear or confronting an unresolved issue.

Teeth falling out -- Anxiety about appearance, communication, or major life changes.

House -- The self. Different rooms represent different aspects of your mind.

Animals -- Instincts and primal emotions. The type of animal matters.

Death -- Transformation and endings, rarely literal. Often signals a new beginning.

Babies -- New ideas, projects, or a fresh start in life.

Mirror -- Self-reflection and how you see yourself.

Fire -- Passion, destruction, or purification. Context is everything.

Door -- New opportunities or transitions. An open door invites; a closed one blocks.

REALITY CHECKS

- Reality checks are habits you practice while awake that eventually carry into dreams. When the check fails in a dream, you realize you are dreaming.
- Nose pinch: Pinch your nose shut and try to breathe. In a dream, you will still breathe.
 - Hand check: Look at your hands. In dreams, fingers often appear distorted or extra.
 - Text test: Read text, look away, read again. In dreams, text changes.
 - Light switch: Flip a switch. In dreams, lights often do not respond.
