

Workout & Fitness Journal

Track Every Rep, Every Set, Every Gain

MORE SHINE PRESS

Your Training Log

This journal is your training partner. Every workout matters — whether you are chasing a new personal record or just staying active. Write it down, track your progress, and watch yourself get stronger.

The Workout Log

Each workout uses a two-page spread. The left page captures your workout type, exercises, sets, reps, weights, and RPE (how hard each set felt on a 1-10 scale). The right page tracks cardio, how you felt, personal records, and your focus for next time.

Progress Tracking

Use the body measurement tracker and one-rep max log at the front to record your starting point. Every few weeks, retake measurements to see your progress. The weekly summaries help you spot trends in your training and recovery.

Tips

- Record your workouts immediately after finishing — do not rely on memory.
- Use RPE honestly. A 10 means you could not have done another rep.
- Track accessories too, not just main lifts. It all adds up.
- When you hit a PR, circle it and celebrate.

KEY TERMS

RPE Rate of Perceived Exertion. A 1-10 scale of how hard a set felt. RPE 10 means you could not complete another rep.

1RM One Rep Max. The maximum weight you can lift for a single repetition with proper form.

AMRAP As Many Reps As Possible. Do as many repetitions as you can in a given time or until form breaks.

DOMS Delayed Onset Muscle Soreness. Muscle soreness that appears 24-72 hours after intense exercise.

Hypertrophy Muscle growth. Training for size typically uses moderate weight and 8-15 rep ranges.

Compound Lift An exercise that works multiple muscle groups and joints at once (squat, deadlift, bench press).

Isolation Lift An exercise that targets a single muscle group (bicep curl, tricep extension).

Superset Two exercises performed back-to-back with no rest between them.

Drop Set Continuing an exercise with lighter weight immediately after reaching failure at a heavier weight.

Progressive Overload Gradually increasing weight, reps, or intensity over time to keep making gains.

Deload A planned period of reduced training volume or intensity to allow recovery.

Volume Total amount of work done, calculated as sets x reps x weight.
